

Statistical Computing 2015

19.07. - 22.07.2015

47th Meeting of the Working Groups
“Statistical Computing” (GMDS / IBS-DR) and “Biostatistics” (GfKI)

Schloss Reisenburg, Günzburg

Workshop Objectives

Discussion of the development and use of analysis methods for Statistical Computing and Computational Statistics with special emphasis on applications in the life sciences.

Important Dates

Submission deadline for talks
July 5, 2015

Final Program
July 12, 2015

Registration

For registration please fill in the form at <http://sysbio.uni-ulm.de/ocs/index.php/statcomp/statcomp2015>
Workshop fee € 50 (Students € 20)

Conference Location

Schloss Reisenburg is an ideal location for a workshop. There are well-equipped conference rooms, accommodation on-site, and an environment that facilitates productive and enjoyable discussions.

Invited Talks

Hands-on Tutorials

“Random forests: Current concepts and implementations”

Andreas Ziegler, Lübeck

“Implementation of random forests in the R package Ranger”

Marvin Wright, Lübeck

“OpenML: Networked science in machine learning”

Joaquin Vanschoren, Eindhoven

“OpenML with R and mlr”

Bernd Bischl, Dortmund

“Probabilistic Modeling of biological high throughput data”

Holger Fröhlich, Bonn

Contact

Instructions for Authors

Organization

H. A. Kestler (Universität Jena)
hkestler@fli-leibniz.de

M. Schmid (Universität Bonn) matthias.schmid@ukb.uni-bonn.de

B. Bischl (Universität Dortmund)
bischl@statistik.tu-dortmund.de

Abstracts for presentations should be submitted to Hans Kestler by email (hkestler@fli-leibniz.de). ASCII text, PDF, Word, Pages, or Tex/LaTeX are acceptable. Abstracts should be no longer than two pages.

The workshop language will be English.

AG Biostatistics (GfKI)

Hans A. Kestler
Friedrich-Schiller-Universität Jena,
Leibniz Institute for Age Research (FLI)

Anne-Laure Boulesteix
Universität München

AG Statistical Computing (GMDS / IBS-DR)

Matthias Schmid
Universität Bonn

Harald Binder
Johannes Gutenberg-Universität Mainz

Bernd Bischl
Technische Universität Dortmund